

GED . . . Look At Me Now!

*Mike Ethen, Braham
GED Graduate, March 2011*

"I'd been through maybe five different schools in five years and had lots of obstacles, like every teenage kid. Now I was ready to move on with my life. I wanted to get a real job, start college, and down the road start a family."

"I was never very good at doing school work independently, so the GED class was a tremendous help. There weren't very many people in the class and we just went in for a couple of hours twice a week for six weeks or so. Vicki, our teacher, prepared us for everything on the test. It went really fast and covered a lot, but it also focused on what each person needed. Plus, you could work individually with the teacher, too. It's probably one of the best decisions I've ever made."

"Now I'm going to Century College in White Bear Lake to study engineering. First I'll get my two-year degree, then maybe go on for a bachelor's degree. Snowmobiles have always interested me and someday I'd love to work for Polaris."

"My advice for someone who is thinking about getting their GED diploma? Do it and get it done! Bite the bullet and take even just part of the test. You'll never know until you try."

A GED diploma is your stepping-stone toward college, a better career, and family-sustaining wages.

After December 2013 there will be a new GED test – it will be more difficult, more costly, and computer-based. That may sound like a long way off, but it's only months from now. Getting your GED diploma is one of the best things you can do for your future, and there's even more good reason to do it now.
